Instrument: Acoustic Guitar

Piece 1 (out of 22): Rockin' the Country

This was a mainly fluent account although the A notes below the stave were not played. The quavers were evenly executed and the tone was firm and clear for the most part, with some projection of the dynamic marking.

Marks: 5/6/6=17

Piece 2 (out of 22): Stegosaurus Strut

The tone was mainly bold and the opening began heavily, suiting the style. During the remainder of the performance however, the musical detail was not adhered to as the rests were missed and the dynamic changes were not made. The movement to and from the bridge, and the slide were not executed.

Marks: 4/4/4=12

Piece 3 (out of 22): Surfin' Safari

This was a mainly accurate and fluent performance, although there was the occasional pause at the bar lines. The tone was produced cleanly and was projected brightly and the note lengths were secure, generally capturing the style here.

Marks: 6/7/7=20

Technical Work (out of 14)

The scales were known and delivered readily, evenly and accurately.

Mark: 14

Performance Delivery and Focus (out of 10)

The performances were generally assured although the transitions between the items were somewhat unorganised and a little unsettling.

Mark: 7

Musical Awareness (out of 10)

Some expression was emerging in this presentation although the styles were not wholly conveyed and the the playing lacked a little poise and composure.

Mark: 6
